By Mabel Bigsby

The Children's Day exercises were a success. The church rally closed June 4. The ladies deserve much credit, as they raised $200.83. They arranged themselves in two clubs. The other club raised $11.75. After all the clubs and officers reported, the total amount was $212.58. Mr. Felix Nelson, Sr., received $250 for the grandstand, for the advancement of the race, says the Albany Knickerbocker Press. Dr. Charles W. Elliot, who condensed the world's best reading into a five-foot shaft, takes his topper off to the foe of western rodents. Here is the quintessence of Grecian gray, matter, doubly distilled and sparkling: "Solon: 'Know thyself.' Chilon: 'Consider the end.' Pythagoras: 'Know thy opportunity.' Bias: 'Most men are bad.' Periander: 'Nothing is impossible to industry.' Cleobulus: 'Avoid excess.' Thales: 'Surety is the precursor of ruin.'"

German Newspaper in Belgrade. The old Serbian capital now has a German newspaper, for the first time in its history. The paper is a daily sheet of six pages, published under the title "Belgrader Nachrichten." In its first issue the new daily announced that Belgrade would remain under the Austro-Hungarian flag forever, even if Serbia should not disappear from the map entirely.

Shrewd Portuguese Premier. Alfonso Costa, the Portuguese premier, whose action it was that precipitated hostilities between the land of Vasco da Gama and that of Walther von Vogelweide, took a wide ride through Lisbon for reasons of state immediately after the murder of King Carlos, last of the Braganza kings but Manuel, and appeared in national congress chambers at just the right moment to swing action to his own desire. Also he or the man with him took a number of holes through the tax in order to make it appear that they had done so doughty a deed under conditions of the greatest danger. The incident is said to give an excellent key to the shrewd character of Costa, who is a politician of politicians and has always managed to get just about what he has wanted—Springfield Republicans.

World's Wisdom in 25 Years. The wisdom of the world in 25 words is the contribution of Charles M. Frey, rat catcher and philosopher of the Hotel Alexandria of Los Angeles, to the advancement of the race, says the Albany Knickerbocker Press. Dr. Charles W. Elliot, who condensed the world's best reading into a five-foot shaft, takes his topper off to the foe of western rodents.

Here is the quintessence of Grecian gray, matter, doubly distilled and sparkling: "Solon: 'Know thyself.' Chilon: 'Consider the end.' Pythagoras: 'Know thy opportunity.' Bias: 'Most men are bad.' Periander: 'Nothing is impossible to industry.' Cleobulus: 'Avoid excess.' Thales: 'Surety is the precursor of ruin.'"

"YOU'D BETTER KNOCK WOOD"

Superstition That It Is Declared Dates Back to the Days of Sylvania Gods.

Signs and omens are seriously regarded by many people who would feel insulted at being called superstitious. If you doubt it, pay attention to what your wife says next time a knife or fork falls from the table to the floor while you are serenely enjoying dinner.

How often have you been told, when you were boasting about good health, to knock on wood? This is one of the common fancies, so common that it has passed into proverbial literature in the form of a song entitled "Knock Wood," or "Touch Wood," according to copyright privileges. It is an old superstition, if that be the correct term for a custom that dates back to the time when the oak and ash and rowan were held sacred to sylvan deities.

It is reported that when Mr. Asquith in a speech to the house of commons referred to the small loss to the British in the transport of men and stores to the front "the first lord of the admiralty (Mr. Balfour) leaned forward gravely to touch the wood of the clerk's table."

So that there is at least the loftiest of personages in such example, and it is said that this was not the first time such a sign was made in the house of commons.

PEACE, TOO, TAKES ITS TOLL

Society Does Not by Any Means Need War to Force Youth to Destruction.

With attempts at suicide by three children in one day, New York is, it is said, the first city that has either assumed burdens that ought not to be forced upon it or is poorly equipped to meet the problems of life, and the New York Herald Tribune. When boys and girls seek death as the one remedy for disappointment, grief or anxiety, we may not be surprised to find despair and fatalism in the air.

A good many people in America proper to be shocked because in Europe, of eighteen or even less have been summoned to the colors. Yet it is evident that there are responsibilities arising from the strifes of peace that are hardly less deadly than those encountered in war.

In most cases boys do not have to be driven to battle. When they are entirely normal they are ignorantly eager for the experience. In our social, educational and industrial system we are pushing children beyond their strength, without discipline and knowledge, we are putting them into the trenches as truly as are the war lords.

Thin Glass to Protect Frescoes.

A novel method of preserving frescoes, recently discovered by Mr. Biw Aihida of Kobe, consists in coating thin glass on frescoes by means of certain specially prepared chemicals. He asserts that the new method renders frescoes proof against insects, humidity and other injurious action of the atmosphere. It is stated that the chemicals, the medium to adhere glass to a fresco, are an alkaline element and caustic nitrogen combined at a heat as high as 300 degrees (cent). Mr. Aihida has applied to the Nara prefectural authorities for the adoption of his method in preserving the famous frescoes of the Horvui at Nara, the oldest temple in Japan.

The Magnetic Power of the Uplifted Christ

By REV. W. W. KETCHUM
Director of the Practical Course,
Moody Bible Institute of Chicago

TEXT—And I if I be lifted up will draw all men unto me.—John 12:32.

There should be no question as to what Christ meant by the expression "lifted up." If we

it should be at once set aside, for the evangelist interprets the words for us: "This he said, signifying what death he should die."

In three other places in John's gospel this expression "lifted up" is used in the third chapter, the fourth verse, where we read: "And so shall the Son of man be lifted up." Again in the eighth chapter, verse 28, we read: "When ye have lifted up the Son of man, then shall ye know that I am he." And in the twelfth chapter, the fourth verse, where the people in response to Christ's words in our text reply: "We have heard of the law that Christ abideth forever; and now sayest thou, the Son of man must be lifted up." It is very evident from this reply that they understood him to mean by the expression "lifted up," his death. And so a careful study of the use of this expression in the gospel convinces one that by it is meant Christ's death upon the cross.

Christ, therefore, in our text tells us that through his death there would come to him an added power, the power to draw all men to him, a power which was not evident when he walked this earth as the Son of man. Christ never had any large following then, probably never more than five hundred disciples at any one time. But today, on this side of the cross, millions follow in his train. His words have come true: "And if I be lifted up I will draw all men unto me."

What is this power? We have all experienced it. It is the attraction of sacrifice. Who is not drawn by it? I shall never forget how, as a boy, I was drawn to the hero of the story, John Maynard, by reading the story of his sacrifice. He was pilot on a lake steamer that caught fire, and though the flames were growing, the pilot knew he bravely stood at his post. From the stern of the vessel, where passengers and crew were gathered, the captain repeatedly called out: "Can you hold out a little longer, John?" And each time, more feebly, came the reply: "Aye, aye, sir, a little longer." At last the boat went down, ground upon the gravelly beach, and all were saved except John Maynard, who died at his post. Who, I ask, is not drawn by such words? And if the sacrifice of John Maynard draws one's heart, who is there that will not be drawn to Christ as they know the story of his sacrifice and the love that drew him to the cross?

Hearts are drawn, the world over, as the old love story of the cross is told. There is no doubt about that. Matchless as the love of God is, it is wonderful and beautiful as his love on earth was. It is the story of Calvary that draws human hearts. For there God in Christ died and gave himself for the problem of every human heart. Sin was there apart from his sacrifice; there he bore our sins in his own body; there he bled and died; there he made sin for us. It was a divine sacrifice meeting every human need. No burdened soul need longer stumble and fall under the weight of sin. There weary work one, why not yield yourself to the drawing power of the uplifted Christ? That is the question. Christ draws all men to him. Will we yield? That depends upon the man, for as true moral agents we have the power of saying, "No." Among the saddest words Jesus ever uttered were these: "Ye will not come unto me that ye might have life." Note it carefully, "ye will not." It is a matter then of our will. Will we yield?

In a little New York state town where I was a student pastor a man sat alone one Sunday night in his home. Some time before this a devoted Christian woman, in paying him a bill, said, "Mr. —, I wouldn't be in your shoes for all you have in the world." And he said this all she placed in his hands two volumes of the life of Christ, requesting that he read them. Time that Sunday night, long heavily on his hands. The next day he was away; he had nothing to do. Alas, he picked up one of the volumes and began to read, not in the front of the book but in the back. It was the second volume of the life of Christ, and as he read he became deeply interested, then fascinated, then drawn. What was he reading? The story of Calvary. A tear glistened in his eye, rolled down his cheek, then another and another. At length, unable to resist longer, he rushed out of his home, up town to the little church, and just as the benediction was about to be pronounced, down the aisle came the pastor. As he reached the pulpit he cried aloud, "What must I do to be saved?" And there, that night, drawn by the uplifted Christ, he yielded himself to the power of the gospel. Oh, my friends, the uplifted Christ draws. With you yield?

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

LESSON FOR JUNE 18.

THE PHILIPPINE JAILER.

LESSON TEXT—Acts 12:14-16.
GOLDEN TEXT—Believe on the Lord Jesus, and thou shalt be saved, thou and thy house.—Acts 16:31.

Dean Vaughn has said of this lesson that it is "two have an epitome of the whole history of the gospel." The time was A. D. 50 or 53 and the place was Philippi, an important city, as before suggested.

I. The Damsel Delivered of Demons (vv. 12-13). On their way to the prison place where they had met Lydia, the disciples met this maid who "had a spirit," a Python. Greek soothsayers were supposed to be inspired by Apollo, who killed a great snake at Mt. Parnassus and left it to rot. The girl was probably possessed of hysteria and thus spoke strange words, and her condition brought much profit to her masters, who professed to interpret her words. This evidence of evil possession, evoked a sympathetic response in Paul's heart. "Her misery and degradation were a symbol of the degradation, as Lydia's sweet and beautiful Christian character was a symbol of the transfiguration of womanhood." Stalker. Her cry after Paul was perhaps that they were the slaves of some evil, even as she was a slave of Apollo. The Gadarene (Lk. 8:28) used similar language. Paul did not at once stop her (v. 13), perhaps to avoid a controversy, but his deliberation made more acute the local delirium wrought. Worn out at last with her cries, but taking no credit himself, Paul spoke the name of Power which has since aroused the "thunders" (Mk. 16:17; Lk. 9:1; Lk. 10:17).

II. The Disciples in Prison (vv. 19-24). Of no other commercial value, the two drivers sought revenge by inciting a mob to attack Paul and his companions. So today the liquor interests would seek remuneration for their "drunken" conduct, and so today they seek remuneration for their "drunken" conduct, and so today they seek remuneration for their "drunken" conduct. The underworld tries to overthrow all who seek to restrain them. Paul and Silas were accused of "troubling" the city, for they had been interfered with. It indeed, went hand with them thus to be unjustly set upon and finally through the contrivance of the spiritual authorities, to be incarcerated in a filthy dungeon. Still, though the majority was against them, yet the mob was not right (compare 17:5; 18:12-18:23), and they had one on their side who was sufficient (Rom. 8:28).

III. Deliverance and Salvation (vv. 25-26). Christ before Pilate was accused of sedition, and these flogged disciples were likewise innocent sufferers. (1) Prayer and praise (25-26). The circumstances—darkness, torn and bleeding, aching backs and a morrow filled with blackness. There was no sleep for the disciples at that midnight hour but often strength is better gained in prayer than sleep. "Praying, they sang hymns,"—in the midst of that heterogeneous lot of prisoners they did not could not keep still. The result was attentive listening by the other prisoners and by a loving Heavenly Father, who "heard their prayer, and answered it" (v. 26). (2) The jailed delivered. The place was so shaken that every barred door was opened and the staples of the stocks were no longer fast to the prisoners. (3) The jailer saved. The brutal one is now the anxious inquirer, and becomes a good type for all to follow who are out of Christ. He saw he was lost. He was subject to the same death as his escaped prisoners. "Supposing" (v. 27) has darkened many lives, and our greatest sorrows are often imagined. Face to face with death, the jailer would plunge into an eternity for which he was not prepared. Paul's clamor call brought the jailer to express his anxiety (v. 29), and it was not a trifling nor skeptically indifferent man who appealed to Paul. He was brought face to face with two holy men, with God and with eternity.

Those to whom he came knew the facts, had faith, and could meet the emergency of life with confidence. IV. The Humbled Magistrates (vv. 25-40). The jailer evidences joy, hospitality and a changed home, which must have reached the magistrates. Their early command was to "let these fellows go." Paul here rises to his full dignity. Beaten open, he commanded without trial and release, does not allow them to cover their crime and blunder by stealth.

The magistrates were liable to lose their confidence, and were not released willingly did all that Paul required. Thus the imprisonment turned out to be the glory of the apostle and the glory of God.

Nor did Paul hasten at all in leaving the city. Recovering strength to travel and encouraging the members of the infant church they departed, taking Timothy (17:14) with them.

Thus God glorified delivered those who labored amidst sore trials, and there was established in Philippi a church which was dear to Paul and which was especially kind to Timothy. The jailer who was once a man under epilation.

ATHLETICS AND AMUSEMENTS

THEATRES

The Strain and Bailey Stock Company, is offering a changed bill at the Booker Washington Theatre this week. Plenty of real music, full of melody and harmony, lively and artistic dancing and witty, dialogue occupy the first part. The musical numbers are rendered in singles and in choruses and are all well received.

The finale is a western drama entitled, "Loud Thunder's Revenge." The strain again appears to advantage in the heavy role. Tim Moore, as a wandering tramp distributes a barrel of fun with his antics. The other members of the cast are well up to the requirements.

The entire program goes over nicely and the audiences are well pleased. There is one little Miss with the Strain-Bailey Company that has been attracting more than ordinary attention. This is Edna Young, a diminutive soubrette, with a versatility of art that would do credit to the best of tonight's stars. She is studying to the minutest detail, is delightfully vivacious, possessing a magnetism that attracts holds her in the center of all activities. Watch For My Inducements

I wish to refer prospective piano purchasers to Miss Mary Thompson, 3033 Marquette Place, who has just recently purchased one of my player pianos for $400 cash. Miss Thompson will gladly show you this elegant instrument at any time.
Don't fail to note Boshed Tuning Pins, the Bell Metal Plate, ebon scale, Ivory Keys, five-point motor, duplex action, double veneering inside and out and further that this piano carried the Steger guarantee of 20 years, against any defect, backed by a $50,000 capital. Now, when you have carefully considered these vital points, then remember: Every white salesman in this city is working on commission and when you buy from one of them you must pay the middle man's profit. I handle pianos on consignment. I sell at my own price and give you the advantage. If you side step me, you pay the penalty. These are plain facts you should know. Now be wise and call and inspect my stock.

NOTE—These calling for pictures, notes and various persons are any writing time calling on Prof. Gladstone. Gladstone's business is the words that come from the cultivated lips of this most interesting man whose power of life has already taken him through all the realms of Europe. It seems indeed, as if he knew what was to come from that mysterious power which he has called forth, yet looking, cannot know. He looks far away into the future, and the great beyond—across the dark domain which separates the human body from the spirit world—that which is called the future. The separated are brought into the future.
